

ABSTRACT

A wide format printing system, apparatus and method are provided to enable standard printing units to print images in a selected wide format. In some embodiments the printing system includes a printing controller, image recognition unit, and a wide format printing apparatus including a plurality of printing sub-units being positioned to precisely cover the width of a substrate of selected size.